About the Seminar

The Indian banking system has been undergoing significant transformation in many ways. The banks in general and Public Sector Banks, in particular, are faced with challenges like asset quality and capital constraints. Though the bank credit has shown moderate recovery in the recent past, this rate of credit growth is unlikely to support the economy's 7.5 percent plus growth. Unfortunately, the other financial intermediaries like RRBs and Cooperative Banks are also now faced with problems similar to banks. Of late, the NBFC segment has also shown lack lustre performance. Thus the flow of credit to the real sector especially MSMEs has been less than satisfactory. It is high time that Banks and Financial Institutions reposition themselves to be able to support the growing economy.

The Banks and Financial Institutions in the North Eastern (NE) Region of India, apart from the challenges of asset quality and poor credit off take, are faced with more complex challenges. Some of these include difficult terrain, law & order disruptions, poor infrastructure, inadequate communication facilities and so on coupled with difficulties of creating lending opportunities, improving delivery efficiency, effective monitoring and recovery as well. The increased focus of the State/Central Governments towards inclusive growth warrants inclusive financial growth as well. Against this backdrop, the present seminar intends to deliberate the current challenges in the Banks and Financial Institutions in general and North East Region in particular.
